New York, Sept. 26.—The international rifle match took place to-day at Creedmoor Range.

On the arrival of the trains from New York a request of the captains of both teams these de-

of the competition, which lasted one hour and a

The notoriety number of clerks, registers and supervisors, each gained by this division since the 23d of April last renders every new movement in connection with it of peculiar pulic interest, and it is more than beard, and the fifth man to be a moderate Reput lican, to be named by the other parties. SOUTH CAROLINA. GOV, MOSES APPEALS FOR PEDMIAL AID. The following telegram has been received by President Grant from Governor Moses, of South

Carolina:

COLUMNIA, S. C. September 25, 1874.

His Excellency U. S. Grant, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

The state of affairs in Edgefield county, in this State, has been for the last tendays of such a character as to threaten the lives and the destruction of the property of law-abiding and peaceful citizens. I have exhausted my efforts with the peaceful and lersh means at my command to re-Carolina: tion of the property of law-abiding and peaceral citizens. I have exhausted my efforts with the peaceful and legal means at my command to restore the usual situation. Armed bands are assembled at various points in the county, and have demanded the surrender to them of the State arms in the hands of the regularity organised militia of the State. From this action a reign of terror exists. I issued my proclamation on the list instant commanding these armed bands to disperse and retire to their homes within three days, and hereafter to refrain from a repetition of such actions. They are still under arms. I am powerless to enforce my orders, except by the use of the inexperienced State militia, the employment of which I fear would hasten a conflict, which I desire to avoid.

Having exhausted all means at my command I call upon you, under the Constitution of the United States, for such assistance as will enable me to restore the peace and quiet of the county, and to this end I sak that you will send immediate orders to Col. H. M. Black, commanding United States forces, to report to me with such of his command as it may be found reseasant to

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

AQUATIC. THE BROWN-MORRIS SCULLING MATCH. St. Johns, N. B., Sept. 28.—After many more delays and postponements than appeared to be necessary the great single-scull race between George Brown, of Halifax, and E. Morris, of Pittsburg, Pa., was rowed at 3 o'cleck p. m. today, in the presence of 2,000 spectators. The course was five miles in length. After the fixile of yesterday there was very little excitement, Brown was the favorite from the start, his backers betting ten to three, and finding few takers. At 7 o'clock this merning Brown was pronounced to be in good condition for rowing, and Dr. Thos. Walker, the referee and and starter, was about to call the race, when it was discovered that the stake-boats had been neglected, and were not in position. This blundering was the cause of two hours' delay. In the meantime a fresh breeze sprang up, rendering the river rough and unfit. This caused further postponement till 3 o'clock, when the water was in a fit condition, and the race was called. The toss was won by Morris, both parties. Fulton, of the American team, and Hamilton, of the Irish team, each scored who selected the inside. At 3 o'clock the word was given, the men dropped their cars at the same time, and the shells flew over the course, Brown making thirtyeight strokes and Morris forty-one per minute, latter also made two goose-eggs, while none of The excitement was now great. Morris took a slight lead till turning at the stake boat was reached, when Brown, making the turn, shot ahead of his opponent a full length. This advan-tage he preserved to the end, reaching the goal riflemen. The shooting was followed by an in-termission for luncheon. The members of the two teams, those accompanying the Irish party atter a magnificent spurt, leaving his rival fully two lengths behind, Time, 37 minutes. The race throughout was very hotly contested, and is were served with lunch in one of the tents. Con-gratulations were exchanged on the marksmanconsidered by competent judges to be the best aquatic encounter ever witnessed in these waters. At the conclusion of the race Brown was escorted Major Leech presented to the Rifle Association, in behalf of the Irish team, a handsome silver to his quarters. He appeared on the verandah, The race was for $2,000 a side. After lunch both teams went on the ground to shoot at 100 yards range, which the Irish team

WHO ARE CARPET BAGGERS

NATIVITY OF SENATORS AND REP-SENTATIVES IN CONGRESS.

WHENCE THE PREJUDICE ARISES-IT DOES NOT MATTER WHERE DEMOCRATS ARE BORN-IT IS THE CHARACTER AND POLI-TICS, RATHER THAN THE PLACE OF BIRTH WHICH IS OFFENSIVE.

The following list has been compiled from offiinl sources to gratify the curiosity of such as may feel an interest in knewing how far they are victims to the terrible curse of "carpet-bag" rule. Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Georgia and South Carolina seem to be tolerably free from foreign representation, but most of the other States are more or less tinctured with it. Even the "sacred soil" of Old Virginia has the terrible contamina tion of two carpet-baggers in the House of Repre-sentatives. But then if the list is carefully scanned it will be found that many of her sons have expet-bagged into Congress from other States, far more than enough to offset all the ignominy that she suffers from her foreign representation. Why she has four Senators. There are Thurman, of Ohio, and Stevenson, of Kentucky, owing their birth to Virginia, and we have not time now to count the Representatives in the flower house who are thus insebted to her. Indeed, a close examination of this list goes far toward convincing the unprejudiced mind that quite as many "poor devils" have gone from the South according to her population and prevailed on citizens of other States to thrust honors upon them as can be shown to have made like successful adventures from

The Southern press would do well to see list and hunt up their own carpet-baggers they make such contemptuous use of the bagger toward those of other sections. It will shed much light upon their favorite theme.

CHAPULTEPEC. THE HOME OF MEXICO'S RULERS.

A letter from Mexico says: Outside of the city, first among the points of interest stands Chapultepec, once the rural palace of the Spanish Viceroys, and after the overthrow of the coloural regime long disused and abandoned, until the advent of Maximilian, who commenced the restoration of the ruined palace, and made it his summer residence. The place is about three miles from the City of Mexico, and can be reached by a broad, straight avenue, for carriages or pedestrians, or by the horse-cars to Tacubaya, which bring you within a stone's-throw, or by the Mexico and Tialpam railway, stopping at the gates. As you enter these gates a few steps lead you into a forest of such trees as only California can equal. The first that attracted our notice stood isolated, and the trunk measured a circumference of forty-two feet; a short distance ahead a clump of four or five furnished shade enough for an encampment, and as we advanced they grew more and more numerous. The tree is a grew more and more numerous. The tree is a sort of willow, with drooping foliage, graceful outspreading branches, and, as may well be concived, of majestic bearing. Many of the oldest are aimost whitened with moss hanging from the branches.

This forest lies at the bare of a steep hill, crowped with the palace of the Viceroys and of branches.

This forest lies at the base of a steep hill, erowned with the palace of the Viceroys and of Maximilian, and now allested as a country residence to the Presidents of the republic. After a long walk we came out of the woods upon the rear of the building, and climbing up, asied by some two hundred stone steps conveniently placed at the steepest passes in the ascent, we reached the court-yard of the building, a romanic spat rick with flowers, fountains and statues. The immense building is entirely in the hands of workmen, who are resovating the habitable portions and completing the new work which the Archouke left unfinished. The furniture used by the Imperial household is huddled pell-melt into the large dining hall. The rooms occupied by Maximilian open, upon a wide baleony which commands a view such as no other baleony can rival. On one side structure the fertile valley to the utmost limit of the horizon, and so far beneath the gazer that every feature of the land-scape can be discerned at once. On another side the sun shines upon the waters of the large lakes that lie at the base of a mountain range from which rise the twin snow-covered volcances of Popocatapetl and Istacchinati, each every way as devices as Crische.

garoens and the giant forest of which I have speken, while above us bends a sky of spotless blue, fringed only by silvery clouds of stanless white. We wander through the many halls, and contemplate with strange feelings the beginning of Maximilian's broken plans, a beginning which palace which he had christened "The Alcasary" would have been marked with the same taste that made Miramar's gen among the royal bermitages of Europe. We make our exit through the imperial gateway, capped with classic statues, upon a smooth avenue, which, with a gentle declivity, winds about, leading us into the gardens below, and out again into the highway. This arenne, too, is the work of Maximilian, for, with it was not advirable to furnish easy access, as it commanded the approach to Mexico, and, it will be remembered, served in 1847 as a last intrenchment to stay the march of the American army.

THERE WAS A SPIDER ON HIS HEAD. Old Mr. Collamore is very deaf. The other Sunday, in the midst of the services, Mr. Hoff, who sits immediately behind Mr. Collamore, saw a spider traveling over the latter's bald head. His first impulse was to nudge him and tell him all about it, but he remembered that Mr. Collamore was deaf, so he lifted up his hand and brushed the spider off. Hoff didn't aim quite high enough, and consequently, in his nervousness, he hit old Collamore quite a severe blow, who dared take such a liberty with him, and Hoff began to explain, with gestures, the cause of the occurrance. But Collamore, in a loud voice, domanded what it meant. It was very painful to Hoff. The eyes of the congregation were upon him, and he grew red in the face. "There was a spider on your head." "A white place on my head, hey? S'posen there is, what's that to you! said Collamore; "you'll know what it is to be bald-headed yourself some day," "It was a spider," shricked Hoff, while the congregation smiled and the prespiration began to roll off his face. "Certainly it's wider," said Collamore, mos. "Certainty R's wider," and Collamore, "and got more in it than yours. But lot it alone— do you mind? You may lot my head alone in church." "Mr. Collamore," shricked Heff, "there was a bug on your head, and it brushed him off-this way," and Hoff made another ges-ture at Collamore's head. The old man thought he was going to fight him then and there, and, harling a hymn-book at Hoff, he seised the kneel-ing stool on the floor of the pew, and was about to bang Mr. Hoff, when the sexton interfered. Am explanation was written on the fly-leaf of the hymn-book, whereupon Mr. Collamore apologized
